

engage discover improve perform... enjoy

Experiential learning or learning through experience?

People only learn from experiences they believe are truly relevant.

The experiences we create may involve outdoor activities and challenging indoor tasks. They may involve business simulations, psychometrics, professional actors and creative 'urban projects'.

Our training can include all these elements, or just some. It always involves intelligent facilitation.

It's the inventive way we weave these approaches together, the engaging way in which we work with you and your participants, and the attention we pay to your business that makes us unique.

We call this true experiential learning.

The result of this approach is clear. Participants learn how to develop their behaviour, improve their performance - and that of others around them - and consequently the performance of your business.

Experience that counts

With 10 years experience we know what we're good at, and what we're not. We select training consultants who are not only highly experienced, but exceptional in their delivery. Chosen for their down to earth approach and business understanding, they engage participants so they enjoy learning and use it back in their place of work. Your business.

Visit our website

www.interaction-ld.com

let's get down to business

You know the problem you want solved, but you haven't got the time to sift through endless brochures that talk in general terms.

So we'll be brief and to the point.

Our expertise is in helping people deliver real change through their everyday behaviour.

- Management learning and development helping first line, middle and senior managers to manage.
- Team learning and development building and developing teams that pull together.
- Graduate learning and development accelerating the transition into the working world.

Getting to know you

Our clients tell us there are real changes when participants return to work. They say our programmes look and feel different. This is because we spend time getting to know our clients' businesses to tailor-make each and every programme.

The bottom line?

You get real training that brings real benefits back to your business.

Interaction learning and development

Sounds like the type of training you want to know more about?

Interaction learning and development

Prince William House Colston Street Bristol BS1 5AE
Tel: 0117 934 9738 Email: info@interaction-ld.com www.interaction-ld.com

Please get in touch

until then

Interaction learning and development

get real training for the real world

designed, developed and delivered by Interaction learning and development

welcome

Interaction learning and development is a company that lives and breathes training.

We provide powerful courses that are individually designed to address specific needs, developed to ensure they provide lasting improvement and delivered by training consultants who use their experience, passion and skills to engage each participant.

The result?

Training that brings real benefit to your business.